Electrotherm establishes new Service Centre in Asia

Electrotherm reaches out for its customers in eastern Asia. Due to the increasing demand from the customers, Electrotherm Electrical and Metal Products Ltd. have established a new service centre in eastern Asia region. The base of the new service centre is in Shanghai, China. It includes professional personnel which trained to provide a quality service.

The new service centre will provide corrective and preventive maintenance for Electrotherm clients. In addition, technical support will be given by phone conversation and electronic means in the local language and local time of the Electrotherm Asian customers. Furthermore, in order to simplify the process of acquiring new spare parts for Electrotherm equipment, from now on it is possible to purchase them through the new service centre!

Please contact Electrotherm to receive more details.
